Dear Sir

I have to thank you for a copy of the Inauguration Proceedings of the Johns Hopkins University which I have read with much interest.

In conciseness-wise council & apt words the congratulatory address is a model for orations on like occasions your own most appropriate address with its comprehensive outlook must be the print of long & deep reflection aided by a wide experience & indi cates an adequate estimate of the responsibilities of such a formidable undertaking as that of President of the Johns Hopkins University in which high position I offer to you my humble con gratulations & shall take here after a personal interest in the prosperity of this great enterprise

Dear Sir
Yours obedy

Dear Sir

Your letter of the 10th came to hand yesterday requesting to do some what may be necessary with a consignment of books from the India Office for the Johns Hopkins University which shall receive care ful attention

The receipts now repeated have will have certainly been sent before - but perhaps was carried from the absence of a Specified Price

address which you letter has now supplied

Any orders which you may kindly entrust to us shall always have our best attention aided by long experience

Anything for yourself will be sent as directed

Yours truly

Dear Sir

We got the books from the India Office, about 35 Volumes, some very rare – Most of them will require binding being at present in loose cloth or paper – We shall keep them for disposal with any other orders you may kindly entrust to us

I am dear Sir

Dear Sir

Your letter of 16 June enclosing lists of books to be collected for the Johns Hopkins University came to hand a day or two since & shall receive immediate & careful attention. The books forwarded shall be always the last editions, & in good condition & shall spare no personal effort to justify your kindness in placing the orders in my hands as far as I am concerned I should like the Library to be equal at least, if not superior, to any other Library in the States - as to the quality & external appearance of its books & this with a due regard to economical expenditure guided by an experienced judgment in the Conduct of it.

We have the bodies from the India Office bound & ready & the few orders previously received which will be included in the first consignment at an early date. I am dear Sir Yours Ever

Dear Sir

I have to thank you for a copy of the Johns Hopkins University Circular No 1. which came to hand this morning

I take this opportunity to say that nearly all the books ordered in Lists A & B will be shipped by the Baltimore Steamer hence Aug 13th

We have many ready now of List A - but not quite all, & think it better to make the matter more complete by waiting till the next boat, a fortnight from this date

I am dear Sir
Yours obedt
