SUMMER
Welcome JHU Class of 2010!
Playfair is a unique event that takes place each year during Orientation and gives the incoming freshmen an opportunity to meet their classmates. The night is full of silly icebreakers, fun activities, and provides an energetic atmosphere for many introductions.

RA's and a large collection of Orientation staff help to introduce the new classmates during this entertaining fair!

The eager Class of 2010 fills the gymnasium as they participate in Playfair 2006.
The excited students line up outside the Rec center with building anticipation as to what exactly a night of "Playfair" has in store!

Even the staff are eager to begin the activities as they welcome the freshmen.

Group activities allow all of the students to interact in a comfortable and engaging setting.
Every year the performing arts groups on campus put together a great show for the freshmen, allowing them to enjoy a night of music and laughter, as well as introducing them to the many extracurricular options available to them.

The night was full of singing, dancing, and even sketch comedy. Though the acts were incredibly diverse, they all shared common elements of entertainment and ability.

Each performing arts group and individual showcased throughout the evening added to the incredibly enjoyable event.
The talent comprising the JHU community was on exhibit all night as the performers proved time and time again what a creative campus Hopkins truly has.
Even before the memorable week of Orientation begins, the freshmen class has the opportunity to participate in a week-long outdoors trip where they have the ability to create new relationships while challenging themselves physically and mentally on all kinds of rough terrain.

After days full of rock climbing, canoeing, and other strenuous activities, the campers had the chance to bond and learn more about each other, as well as themselves.
Pre-O offered such fantastic chances for the participants to enjoy the beautiful wilderness and to meet many new and friendly faces before the hectic school year commenced.
Another annual, orientation tradition at Hopkins is the hysterical appearance of comedic alum Dan Adhoot who never fails to deliver a night of side splitting laughter and an escape from the stresses of starting college for the new freshmen class.

The night definitely lacked any dull moment as the crowd continuously roared with laughter at Dan Adhoot’s comedic take on Hopkins and college life.
comedy night: Dan Adhoot

The feeling of homesickness was far from the minds of the freshly moved in class as they bonded over an evening of hysterical fun.
harbor trip

Orientation is not only a time for the freshmen to become acquainted with the Hopkins campus and community, but also the city of Baltimore, a new city for most to call home for at least 9 months out of the year.

Nothing better could have introduced the new class to their new home town of Baltimore than a trip to the inner harbor.
Activities were limitless for the students as they enjoyed a day at the aquarium, Power Plant, and many of the Harbor's other attractions.
With the generous help of volunteer students and staff, what could potentially be a hectic situation of freshmen move-in runs smoothly as each freshmen and accompanying family is directed to the correct location. Here they simply sit back and relax while the volunteers take care of the rest, making the transition as smooth as possible for the new class.

Despite the ominous and dank weather, staff and volunteers made sure the process of moving in was quick and as stress-free as possible for the families.
Braving the elements, even President Brody offered a helping hand in greeting the new class, making them feel welcome as new members of the Johns Hopkins Community.
The holiday season is a time of joy and celebration for the Johns Hopkins campus. To mark the beginning of the festivities, the annual Holiday Quad Lighting brightened the entire campus, bringing holiday spirit and beauty to all.
The entire crowd of spectators present to celebrate the quad lighting was kept warm and happy by the spread of refreshments and beverages along with the excellent music provided by Hopkins' very own students.
2007 NCAA Men's Lacrosse Champions

The Johns Hopkins Men's Lacrosse defended their title of National Champions at home in Baltimore at M & T Bank Stadium against the threatening adversaries, Duke University's Blue Devils.
The scorching heat was the least of the men's worries as they battled fiercely against the Blue Devils in their mutual ambition of going home with the title of National Champions. The stadium was packed with screaming fans and the players certainly gave them something to scream for. The incredible game ended in our favor, as the Men's Blue Jay Lacrosse Team brought home yet another national victory.
The Mattin Center served as the location for this annual celebration of the rich artistic world that exists at Johns Hopkins University.
the mattin party

Performing arts groups were not the only acts enjoyed by a captive audience. The afternoon was full of innovative and artistic displays that truly show the depth of Hopkins diversity.
The students of this extracurricular group find time weekly to escape from their arduous studies and express themselves in a unique and healthy manner through choreography and dance.

Though diverse in backgrounds and educational aspirations, the members of the Modern Dance Company share a passion for dance as it provides a wonderfully artistic outlet which each individual can appreciate.
Each performance is brimming with grace and elegance, giving the dancers their chance to shine, impressing all audience members.
Each year the student run Milton S. Eisenhower Symposium hosts a series of lectures given by guest speakers of all areas of expertise, ranging from politics to entertainment.
Some of the guest lecturers for the 2006 MSE Symposium series included Jason Alexander, Ralph Nader, Newt Gingrich, Afeni Shakur, Petra Nemcova, and others. It was an honor for the Johns Hopkins University to be host to these admirable speakers.
hopkins idol

Much like the popular television craze, Hopkins Idol is an opportunity for the many musically inclined individuals of JHU to take a shot at winning the title of Hopkins Idol. The evening was one of music, laughter, and impressive performances enjoyed by the audience and the judges.

It was quite a show to witness as it was full of diverse talent and obvious passions for performance and music.
Even though only one of the numerous contestants can be deemed the winner of Hopkins Idol, each performer was certainly a crowd pleaser.
This student run event attracted huge crowds as participants competed for the desired title of Hopkins Top Model! This charity event sponsored by Vision Xchange not only raised money for a great cause, but provided a night of entertainment for the audience, the judges, and the Top Model contestants.

Each participant showed the audience what it takes to be "Top Model" as they strut their stuff down the runway.

the spaghetti bridge competition

Each year teams of Hopkins students challenge each other and themselves in a competition to see who can build the most stable noodle structure. The bridges are truly put to the test when large weights are added, the one able to support the heaviest weight is declared the victor.

By pooling their intellectual reserves, the engineering students worked as a team to create what they hoped to be the winning design.
the spaghetti bridge competition

Each member of the participating teams had to do his or her share of brainstorming, calculating, and designing in order for the bridge to be built successfully.

It was just a matter of time before the intricate structures would surrender to the increasing weight.
Each spring the student organized Spring Fair is a time of relaxation and celebration of the new season's warm arrival! Between the delicious fair food, precious treasures of the arts and crafts booths, fun and games, and excellent concerts and music, it is surely a weekend that all members of the campus, and city communities, can enjoy together.
Spring Fair provides a diverse source of amusement for anyone who attends. Participants of all ages are provided with wonderful activities including games and rides for children, a social beer garden for adults, and food and festivities for those of all ages.
Such a variety of nationalities and cultures were represented by this event and no matter what the audience members' backgrounds, everyone could appreciate the beauty and culture behind every performance.
culture fest
Many members of the Jewish community here at Hopkins joined together to celebrate Purim. It was a wonderful time for all involved as participants enjoyed a wonderful spread, good company, and many laughs throughout the night.
hillel's purim celebration
The annual Johns Hopkins University Chili Cook-Off was quite a hit on campus as groups competed for the right to claim their recipe as the most tasty dish! This charity event was a day full of good food, great company and a wonderful cause as proceeds went to benefit the United Way.
the chili cookoff

A great cause never tasted so good! Smiles were hard to miss as spectators and judges alike enjoyed their samples of the many varieties of chili as well as goodies from the simultaneous bake off.
February is a month of commemoration, appreciation, and remembrance as the Johns Hopkins community participates in Black History Month events.

Large audiences were never lacking at the month's affairs which included guest speakers, presentations, and a variety of other events.
Many of the wonderful speakers and performers were students, staff, and members of the community here at JHU.
The Biomedical Engineering department offers such wonderful opportunities for the talented and ambitious students of Johns Hopkins University, including up and coming research in the field. Each year the students are given an opportunity to present their research through oral and poster presentations during Design Day. The teams of students were also available for demonstrations as well as question and answer sessions throughout the day.
The advanced and fascinating developments made by the design teams intrigued all guests, including faculty and fellow students as well as other members of the community.

Against all competition the JHU Women’s Basketball team remained focused and united as they swept opponents and earned many victories along the way.

Being an audience member at the Women’s Basketball games was an exhilarating experience complete with a display of skillful offense and aggressive defense.
It took more than athleticism to survive as a member of the Men's and Women's Crew Teams. From sunrise practice to long regatta weekends, these athletes had a passion for their sport that kept them together as a team seen during the synchronized rowing of each race.

The combination of offensive power, defensive abilities and skills of the special teams made Hopkins Football a fierce competitor this fall season.
It is hard for anyone, particularly the competition, to not be intimidated by the achievements and power this team brings to the game each and every time they step foot onto the field.
The pressure that comes with being on the Johns Hopkins Men's Lacrosse Team does not phase the players as they ended the ultimate season as National Champions! Every year they make the Johns Hopkins University proud as the team's deft plays and unstoppable talent prove them to be yet again, #1.

It would be a challenge for any team to not be intimidated by the energy and talent the women of the Women’s Lacrosse team put into every single play of a game. It was perhaps this relentless nature of these players that led them to complete yet another fantastic season this year.

The Swim Team of our school not only brings pride to the school, but also to the community. It is a great way to be involved in sports.
The Men's Swimming Team not only excelled in our conference, but demonstrated the endurance and strength our Blue Jay athletes have in and out of the water.

In each race, the men of the Johns Hopkins Swim Team glide effortlessly through the water, hiding the power behind each and every stroke.

Endurance and strength are two things the women of the JHU Cross Country team are very familiar with. Each race they must push themselves one step further mentally and physically as they encounter and overcome new challenges with each course.
Commencement 2007
Commencement 2007 was a showing of pride, honor, and accomplishment as friends and family watched the Johns Hopkins Class of 2007 walk the stage, signifying their completion of undergraduate work and leaving behind years of success and achievement.
Congratulations to the Class of 2007! The endless dedication and hard work served the graduates well as Commencement 2007 marked the beginning of a new era for all of their young lives.

Staff, students, faculty and all members of the Johns Hopkins University community were proud to send these extraordinary men and women into the world armed with not only education and intellect, but courage and decency as well. The Class of 2007 contributed an unmeasurable quantity to the University and will certainly be missed by all.
With words of wisdom and encouragement, President William Brody and guest speaker Brian Billick of the Baltimore Ravens offered their advice and congratulations to the graduates as they embark on a new chapter of their lives.
Emotions ran high as the graduates closed the door on their undergraduate experiences and education at Johns Hopkins University. The excitement radiated from each graduate throughout the ceremony and into the celebrations that followed.

- Mid-calf and ankle-length leggings, last seen in the trendy 1980s, return to the spotlight. Fashion-conscious girls wear them under minis, dresses and tunics.

- Pointy toes and high heels are out. The feminine, flirty ballerina flat goes with everything from short skirts to long leggings and super-skinny jeans.

- Colorful comfortable crocs—made from a buoyant, lightweight, odor-resistant material that molds to the wearer's foot—are the shoe of the year.

- Couture designers like Dolce & Gabbana and luxury brands like Swarovski, the Swiss crystal maker, transform boring cell phones into the year's must-have bling.

- Rapper fashion comes to the suburbs as snap-on grills add a flash of diamonds and gold or platinum to your pearly whites.

- Nearly 31 percent of teens, or 7.6 million, are consuming energy drinks that contain up to four times the amount of caffeine than is in a can of Coke.

Favorite brands:

- Diesel

- The year's to-die-for, must-have-at-any-price jeans are dark, slim, distressed denims from Diesel, the Italian label that inspires a cult-like devotion among its customers.

- Tiny plaid mini skirts look private-school cool. Meanwhile, Marc Jacobs is sending plaid tops down the runway and fashion icons sport Burberry plaid.
