Dear Sir

On returning home yesterday evening my eyes lighted upon a neat package, containing the gift of your valuable paper, for which I beg to return my acknowledgments.

My wife who was so happy as to hear it when 'delivered' had secured already the Norwich Jubilee volume which contained your historical discourse: being an indebted to you for its appearance in this elegant volume, which by its paper and typography will more worthily preserve the text and historical matter, so well deserving of preservation.

I am, your truly obliged servant,
W. A. Innes.
