Star Fencers

Our great University has once more been blessed with a fencing team that is destined to bring the University an elevated position in intercollegiate competition. The fencing team has been well launched. The new fencing coach, Kneibl, is himself an accomplished fencer, and has instilled the team with the drive to succeed. The team is comprised of talented fencers, including Ken O'Connell, who has already shown promise in his first season. The fencing team has the potential to reach great heights, and we look forward to their success.

Star Trackmen Meet Gallaudet

Gallaudet, who recently suffered a setback with the loss of Reuben Baer, are facing a fierce challenge against Hopkins. With the absence of Baer, the team is relying on the performance of their remaining fencers to secure a win. Hopkins has been on a roll, winning their last few matches, and will be looking to continue their winning streak against Gallaudet. The match will be a test of their abilities and a chance for both teams to showcase their skills.

Meet Tradition

Hopkins has a rich tradition in track and field, originating in 1913. The team has produced numerous champions and national records. This year's meet is a testament to their legacy, as they host Gallaudet University, a formidable opponent. The meet is not only a chance to compete but also a chance to honor the storied history of the Hopkins Track and Field team.

Golf Team Defeated

The Johns Hopkins golf team was defeated 5-2 by Western Maryland at a match played in Westminster on Wednesday last. The members of the Johns Hopkins team were their usual model, but Robert Gober, Walter Bramson, and William Carey were defeated. The deciding point was scored by Western Maryland when Carey failed to make a birdie putt on the eleventh hole. Holloway, the low man for both teams, was Monday, the golfers will play the Country of Maryland. This year’s team consists of six men, and the customary freshman Hop-

And speaking of Easter, we are glad to report that the Easter Sunday party of the various houses was once again held open house. Further comment is unnecessary.

As a service feature, this column occasionally attempts to give advice to freshmen as to how they may best conduct themselves during the Easter period. Our rule for today is:

"Don't pay too much attention to all those who are drinking — our famous alumni don't cut too much of a figure around a fraternity house. And the moral of this story is, there were no deals, there should have been.

"And speaking of Beta, why do they have only plain, insipid-looking rats at their Easter Sunday party? It drove their seniors to drink — our fraternity members have yet not been completed.

"And speaking of Beta, why do they have only plain, insipid-looking rats at their Easter Sunday party? It drove their seniors to drink — our fraternalities will hold open houses.
