The Student Council invalidated last week's Freshmen run-off election because of several procedural problems. The action was taken in a Council meeting Sunday night, a meeting which, in the words of Council President George Connolly "was understood to be closed," even though "officially nothing was said."

The problems with the election centered around the actions of the Student Council members who took the ballot box duty. According to Tom Messana, the Council member in charge of the election, not enough people volunteered for box duty, and some volunteers proved to be unreliable. Council Secretary Sid Goodfriend described an experience he had last Wednesday, when he had ballot box duty in the MSE library from 3 to 6 P.M. When his was up no one arrived to take over the box, so after some phone calls he left the box with the library desk and went to dinner.

The ballot box was never left by itself but was rather placed in the hands of staff members of the library, Gilman Coffee Shop or The Union Desk. Whenever the box was out of the hands of a Council member the blank ballots were removed by the last member to have it so as to reduce the chance of ballot stuffing.

Although there were some problems with the ways in which voter identification was checked and multiple voting was prevented, the Freshman Record was used as a list of freshmen names. This caused many problems because the Record is unofficial and only has the names of 70 per cent of the freshmen.

The same copy of the Record was used during the primary, so by the time of the general elections many names had check marks next to them, resulting in confusion over how to mark off those who had voted in the run-off. Messana left instructions just to put an "X" next to the name of anyone who voted.

For those who didn't have their names in the book a list was started in the back with just their names written down. However this had already been done for some in the primary election, and the lists became very confusing, especially when some people marking the ballot box took to simply writing down the name of anyone who voted. Students could easily have voted twice, since there were two lists.

What caused the final decision to declare the election invalid was the fact that the copy of the Record with all the names lists was lost, so that these problems couldn't even be checked.

Student Council Vice-President Barbbara Squires recalled that members were unable to get the immediate location of the Record late Thursday night when the first real questions about the election had been run. Messana recalled that he first discovered he could not find it when he started looking for it before the Student Council meeting Sunday.

All the Student Council members reached for comment said that the election had to be invalidated when it was found that the Record was gone.

Another minor problem with the election was that Paul Rosen's name was left off the ballot. The day Messana picked up the ballots from the printer he and a freshman helper had to fill the name in by hand.

BY LINDSAY KAPLAN
The administration has recently formed a committee to conduct a comprehensive evaluation of security services on and around the Homewood campus.

Student Council President George Connolly made repeated requests last year that a committee be formed to review security. According to Connolly, the administration was unresponsive until Alan Trimakis was shot and killed near the East Baltimore Campus, whereupon Vice President Robertry Bowie consented to form such a panel.

The Homewood Campus Security Advisory Committee, which consists of members of the student body, faculty, staff and administration, will submit a recommendation on improving the safety of the campus to William Campbell, director of Campus Planning and Operations. The Committee's charge is to review "all areas of security on the Hopkins Homewood campus, including off-campus housing," campus security's "relationship with the City Police department," and to "study the escort service, awareness programs and other such crime prevention and community relation programs."

The Committee, chaired by

Silk Discusses Problem In Science And Society

BY FELICE EKELMAN
Silk asserts that arguments focusing on how technology relates to economics tend to juxtapose each other. One can argue that society gains through the use of technology, as in developing more efficient means of production and better use of resources. He cited examples of better use of land and other natural resources such as oil, gas and solar energy.

Silk referred to the problem of obsolete professions as one detrimental effect of technological change on the working of the economy. With the implementation of new technological developments, institutions change their manpower needs, so that a population of marginal workers appears which has little function in society. To cope with the problem of marginal occupations and resulting unemployment, Silk called for new institutions to develop occupations which could replace outmoded ones.

Silk's concluding statement warned the Symposium audience...
Campus Notes

The Johns Hopkins University
Office of Special Events
presents
THE PEABODY–HOPKINS SERIES
featuring
“Studies in Style”
with students of the Peabody Dance Department
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 12 NOON
Garrett Room, Milton S. Eisenhower Library
Homewood Campus
NO ADMISSION CHARGE

Let us schedule the flights to your med school interviews!

PORTS of Call Travel, Inc.
3900 N. Charles St. 467-3900
(within walking distance of JHU)

A full service travel agency providing personal and professional attention for all needs. Free 1980 calendar with this ad and airline booking.

Now accepting Thanksgiving and Christmas Reservations.

ICELANDIC AIR TICKETS
STUDENT EURAIL–PASS
SKI TOURS
AMTRAK
CHARTERS
INTERNATIONAL &
DOMESTIC AIRLINE
TICKETS

The winner of The Literary Lions Quiz is Ms. Nancy John- son, of Goucher. By our reckoning, Nan is the first Goucher girl...and so...Goucher woman to ever score off the Quizmaster. Just another in a long line of News-Letter firsts. Set ya at Disco Night, Nan!

1) The first part of their pen names was “George,” and they were both women; 2) William Makepeace Thackery; 3) John Wilmot; 4) Keats; 5) Lord Petre; 6) James Joyce; 7) China; 8) Harriet Beecher Stowe; 9) The hero of Atlas Shrugged; 10) The second-best bed; 11) They pointed the wrong way; 12) Pilot. Dropping hard grenades on German submarines; 13) Evelyn Waugh; 14) The Quarterly Review; 15) blacks.

The Hopkins Christian Fellowship invites you to join us for a talk on Judaism by Dr. Rev. Daniel Green and Rev. Don Jackson, Friday from 6:30-8:30 pm in the Garrett Room, MS Library.

Israel Politics Students for Intellectual Activity will present a talk and discussion about peace in Israel, Thursday at 7:00 pm in G 33.

There will be a regular Friday Night Services at the KDH at 6:30 pm, followed by an Orgy. Reform services will be in Conf. Room A at 6:00 pm. Saturday morning services begin at 9:30 am at the KDH.

Every Wed. night at the KDH there will be a Hebrew speaking table for dinner, 6:00-8:00 pm.

Every Thursday night at 7:30 pm, Rabbi Reuven Drucker meets at the KDH for informal discussion on Jewish topics.

Coming Event: the JSA will hold its first bagel brunch of the year on Sun., Nov. 4.

Undergraduate Science Bulletin is beginning work to publish our next issue. If you are interested in helping out in any way, there will be a general meeting next Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 8:30 pm in Conf. Room A, next to the L-V Room. If you cannot attend, leave a note in Box 766.

Meetings of the Alternative Energy Movement will occur on Tuesdays at 7:30 pm in Conf. Room B of Levering. Questions and interest should be directed to Susan Anderson.

All participants in the BIA 2-on-2 basketball tournament should report to the auxiliary gym at 11:00 Sat. morning. Score sheets are posted on the BIA bulletin board in the gym.

The JHU Flying Club will hold its next meeting Oct. 30 at 9:00 pm in the Glass Pavilion. All those interested in starting ground school should attend. Call Bill or Steve at 235-0329 for further information.

Come to the JSA Colloquium on Saturday night, 27 October, from 4:00- to 1:00 in Cremona’s Place. Only $1.00 for all the coffee and doughnuts you can eat, plus live entertainment, including Mike Costello and his famous barbershop quartet.

The JHU Ski Club will hold their first meeting Wed., Nov. 1 in the Listening Viewing Room at 7:00 pm. Ski movies will be shown. We will discuss trip to Peru, Vermont, and out west. All are welcome.

There will be a meeting of the Course Guide this Wednesday, October 31, at 6:00 pm in Conf. Room A of Levering. Please return all completed reviews. We will be working on production at this meeting. Revisions will be served.

NEW COURSE
Public Health Ecology 26A03

Time: 2nd Quarter November 8, 1979 to January 17, 1980
1:30–5 PM Tuesday and Thursday
Place: School of Hygiene and Public Health
Credit: six

This course will emphasize case histories of public health problems that have been or can be elucidated through the ecological approach. Areas of discussion will include: Populations, food, famine and malnutrition in preindustrial societies, mis-management. Management of soils and fisheries. Impact of war on ecosystems. Fire ecology. Climate, weather and disease. Infectious diseases. Pesticides, integrated pest management, organic farming and health foods. Importance of plants to health: pharmaceutical, plant substances and spices, weeds and hayfever. Toxic substances in the environment. Ecology of urban dogs, cats and local wildlife.

Field trips: Census Baltimore City dogs and cats. Gunpowder River water quality study.

For information and outline—Phone: Edwin Gould 955-3291 or 661-6362 (before 9 PM)
961-4942 (after 9 PM)

WEDNESDAY-NOON-SERIES

Presented by The Johns Hopkins University Office of Special Events

AN INTRODUCTION TO DANCE MOVEMENT THERAPY
An illustrated lecture by Arlene Stark
Registered Dance Therapist and Director,
Dance Movement Therapy Graduate Program, Goucher College

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31 — 12 NOON
Garrett Room, Milton S. Eisenhower Library
Homewood Campus
NO ADMISSION CHARGE

Rent Control Debates Tues, Oct. 30, 4:00 pm, L/V Room, and Oct. 31, 7:00 pm, Rom. 101. What reforms yourself—you need not be a Baltimore City voter.

The Fine Arts Committee is sponsoring three upcoming concerts. Derek Bailey on his first visit to this coun-

The Fine Arts Committee will be sponsoring an art exhibition for next season. Organization must start now; if you are interested in submitting original paintings, photographs, sculptures et al please contact Toby Steele, 467-6140 or leave me a message, Box 1020.

A full service travel agency providing personal and professional attention for all needs. Free 1980 calendar with this ad and airline booking.

Now accepting Thanksgiving and Christmas Reservations.

ICELANDIC AIR TICKETS
STUDENT EURAIL–PASS
SKI TOURS
AMTRAK
CHARTERS
INTERNATIONAL &
DOMESTIC AIRLINE
TICKETS

Get the flights to your med school interviews!
Council Sponsors Discussion On Boycott Of Nestle Goods

BY SUNITA HANJURA

The Student Council sponsored "debate" on the Nestle's boycott. The day should more properly have been labelled a forum, since Nestle's did not supply a spokesman to present the corporation's view. Instead, Nestle's mailed a statement saying that the corporation is willing to combat "infant mortality" and that it has adopted a ban on advertising infant food products. This statement was issued as an outcome of the World Health Organization meeting held this October.

The forum, organized by the New Political Caucus, did answer some questions that Hopkins students have raised concerning the boycott. Richard E. Ulrich and Dr. Cecile De Sweemer outlined the strategy and purpose of the boycott, why Nestle's has been singled out as opposed to other corporations that market infant formulas, and what they hope to achieve as a result of the boycott.

Ulrich described the demands of the boycott and alleged that although Nestle's has stated that it will promote the products, the corporation has not categorically stopped distribution of free samples, use of milk nurses, and monetary benefits to health institutions and officials. He stressed the importance of maintaining the pressure on Nestle's so that it will "provide consistency, efficiency, and purpose of the boycott..."

De Sweemer, who has done social work in Nigeria and has been advising lower class people of the benefits of breast-feeding, contended that the issue is one of "economic justice on the international level" as opposed to a biological question. Since "that is a factor you cannot change quickly," she holds that it is more important to "reinforce pressure gradually." While it is not feasible for members of the Hopkins community to educate the underprivileged about nutrition, De Sweemer suggested that church organizations can develop such programs. Rather than promoting "strident slogans" such as "Nestle's kills babies," she feels that "we need more reflection on what underdevelopment means." For mothers who cannot breastfeed, De Sweemer advocates pure milk or skim milk powder as biologically and economically preferable to Nestle's infant food.

Student Council President George Connolly expressed the view that the sale of artificial infant formulas is a complex issue. It is alleged that the sale of formula results in severe maltreatment of babies in the third world, whose mothers lack the money to provide a continuing supply and the means to prepare the formulas under sanitary conditions. Connolly questioned the effect of withdrawing infant formula without concurrent social and economic changes in the various underdeveloped countries.

Also at the Wednesday meeting, Robert Elkin talked about the Education Committee's Report on Advising, which was presented before the Curriculum Review Committee on October 15. The Report, which criticizes both student apathy and advisor inadequacy, was not discussed further because copies have not yet been distributed to members of the Council.

The following excerpts from the Report were based on a survey of the student body last spring. "Many of the problems with the advising system stem from the ambiguous nature of the University's commitment to undergraduate education..." Faculty members often stigmatize advising, and conceivably on some issue a reformer treating either that the University favors the boycott, does not favor it, or holds no opinion. According to Connolly, so far only representatives of the New Political Caucus have presented their views as to what role the University should play in the boycott and how the Council could encourage people of opposing viewpoints to approach the Council.

Independent Election Committee To Supervise Spring Elections

BY MIKE FINGERHOOD

Because of the controversy provoked by the Student Council's May elections, the Council has established an independent Elections Committee. In charge of these elections, this group will attempt to "provide consistency, efficiency and serve as a bulwark against election proceedings." The most recent challenge to the Council's procedures came last week during freshman class elections. It was discovered that the ballot box was open only 34 hours, rather than the required 40. The Student Council invalidated the election, but the basis of this and other problems, Committee chairman Bill Dear said that this was not the first time election proceedings had generated controversy. He stated that this was the last in a long series of election problems which forced the Council to take action.

The Commission consists of five students selected by the S.C. Committee on Committees and approved by the full Council. Its role will be outlined in an election, which the Commission will consider to be drafted by December 12 of this year. The Commission's responsibilities will include validating petitions, scheduling ballot box hours, counting ballots, and publicity and promotion. Dean hopes that the Commission will escalate voter turnout as well, which has been poor in recent elections.
Does George Have To Do Everything???

The Student Council's "handling" of the freshman elections this week reminds us of those old Keystone Kops movies we used to enjoy so much. Tom Messana's slapstick ballot-box shell game vied with the monotonous outbreak in Baker for belly laugh of the week. It must be rather hard on the freshmen to find themselves assaulted by the Council's bumbling and an infectious disease all at the same time. At least the Frosh candidates have learned early on that the "high political drama" on this campus usually resembles a Comedy of Errors or Theater of the Absurd. Anyway, while we're waiting for Godot to count, or recount, or find the ballots, we should begin to take a serious look at the question of campus elections and referendums in general.

The Council has wisely decided neither to endorse nor dismiss the Nestle boycott by itself, referring the issue to the whole student body instead. This is a definite improvement in judgement over two years ago, when feeble-minded Council member cum Young Trustee Stuart Davidson (we wouldn't trust him with a broom, much less investments) endorsed the coal miner's strike in the name of the University without consulting the students. The Council's current action on the Nestle question, however, is proper. The alleged exploitation of third-world infants is an important moral question, and, if the allegations are indeed true, then a boycott is a good (if largely symbolic) manner in which to express our concern. After all, it's hard enough to get Hopkins people off of D-levels.

The best way for the Council to avoid such difficulties is to hold well publicized, open meetings whenever there are asked to sponsor a referendum. The issue should be the importance of the question involved and not - we repeat - not, the "personalities" of its backers. Student input is vital to such issues, and should not be shut out by closed doors.

If this week's fiasco is any indication, the Keystone Kops would take all the help it can get running any subsequent elections.

Freshman-Ballot Box

Kitty Litter
Hopkins Sophomores Form New Pi Lambda Phi Chapter

By Chuck Dearolf

"It takes a lot of work, and a group of interested people. We wanted to run a frat, and soph's don't come much to say. We wanted the challenge, and it's definitely a four-year project. The frat is our legacy to Hopkins."

With these remarks, several officers of Pi Lambda Phi (recognized last May) explained their reasons for departing from the ordinary and going through the procedural and social hassles of beginning their own fraternity. What began as an idea last January currently is a reality to ten confident Brothers who have lived in the same dorm decided to stay together after their freshman year. Director of Student Services Tom Schmidt encouraged them to pursue their idea of forming a frat. "Most people didn't think it was possible, which made us work even harder," according to Vice President Bob Bagdor. Nevertheless, after talking with a number of people, the group had enough commitments to join to go ahead with plans.

The next step involved deciding upon a national organization. Pi Lambda Phi was chosen for a variety of reasons, most notably the fact that a smaller, closer-knit national fraternity than many others (about 18,000 members). Also, Pi Lambda had existed on the Hopkins campus until 1943, and the National organization is the conciliating one for all campus organizations. After demonstrating to the National a potential for growth and house ownership, the Hopkins students were initiated into the rituals of the frat, and were taught how to train new members and how to run a fraternity.

Is Pi Lambda different? "Definitely," said President Bennett Fein. "We're smaller, and everyone has a say. We're the first in the chapter, sc we make our own traditions."

One tradition not continued by these sophomores is that of hazings initiates. Instead, they assign constructive pledge projects. "It's stupid to treat pledges like servants," said President Bob Bagdorf. Remarkably, Pi Lambda wants "good Brothers, not good pledges."

In addition, the Pi Lambda feel they are a frat in the true sense of the word—you're a Pi Lambda for a lifetime." They work to make it something to be proud of in later years. "We keep decumence to a minimum," joked Treasurer Sean Costello. The Brothers also felt that their frat could not be characterized by one or two words, such as "jock" or "nerd" (perhaps that will change as they earn a "reputation"). At any rate, their relation with other fraternities seems to be good.

With much accomplished, obtaining new members and running successful programs are important now. While Hopkins rules prohibit organized solicitation of potential Brothers until Rush Week in February, the "Michael's Mass" last weekend was one type of introduction of the frat to the campus. This party, the first for Phi Lambda at the University, was attended by over 400 people in attendance and enough beer. The frat plans on doing volunteer work, organizing more parties, finding a house, and participating in intramurals. Pi Lambda Phi welcomes anyone interested in attending its weekly meetings or seeking more information. Call Fein at 889-4616.

Silk Speaks at MSE

Silk, a number of Silk's works are written for the humanities and social sciences, has a better understanding of economics. Silk maintains that a new conception of economics has resulted in a broader base of public interest in the sciences. Popular concern for the state of the business and financial world has caused a surge of interest in the workings of United States and international economies.

Power and Sadism Discussed at Rape Program

Campus Security reported the following crimes on campus for the period October 20-26.

A clothes dryer, valued at $150, was stolen from the laundry room of the new dorms was found and returned between October 13 and 15. This theft was not reported earlier because it was thought the machine was being serviced.

Starcy Tavoukian, of the 3000 block of North Charles Street, reported a set of barbells stolen from Maryland Hall between October 18 and 23. The weights, valued at $50, were kept in a storeroom.

Silk's works on economic issues which are combined with humanistic habits and thoughts, human society will not survive. According to Silk, the political, economic and social elements of society must struggle to harmonize the changes, he thought.

Silk has written eleven books. His most recent work (1976) is entitled Economics in Plain English. A number of Silk's works are written for the humanities and social sciences, has a better understanding of economics. Silk maintains that a new conception of economics has resulted in a broader base of public interest in the sciences. Popular concern for the state of the business and financial world has caused a surge of interest in the workings of United States and international economies.

He said that in 1978 499 rapes were reported in Baltimore and this figure represents only an estimated 20% of all that took place. Based on his remarks on research conducted with convicted rapists and convicted assailants by Bos ton College professor Ann Burea, Wenck identified several types of rapists. The most dangerous is the sadistic rapist, who selects victims of any age and for whom violence, not sexual satisfaction, is the primary purpose of an attack. Such cases, I won't tell you to fight back, to get the attacker, the victim is lucky, it's over.

According to Wenck, one particular type of rapist is the difficult to convict. "When the issue is the rapist who uses only that force necessary to overcome the victim's will, then he can be put down to an estimation of what that force used must be in that particular case.

Wenck defined rape according to law, as "forcible vaginal intercourse." He distinguished between categories of rape and severity of sentences imposed in terms of type of assault and degree of force used.

He described two common defenses, which are to make the charge of rape. If the victim and the attacker are strangers, the assailant may plead mistaken identity. If the two are acquainted, the legal response might be to conduct an investigation which somehow has been proven, that she was stupid enough to place herself in the danger of which she should have been aware. "This is one of the myths about rape that goes unanswered." Wenck then used his previous remarks.

Benson began by listing the services offered by the Center for Victims of Sexual Assault. The Center operates a 24-hour hotline at 366-RAPE for confidential reporting to victims and their families. Upon request, they accompany victims through hospital and court procedures. And, the Center's Baltimore city hospitals have specialized facilities to cope with the specific needs of city Hospitals. Mercy and University Hospital. He urged all victims to go to a hospital as quickly as possible after an assault. Besides obtaining treatment, the victim is examined for evidence that can be used should he decide to prosecute his attacker.

He discussed what happens to victims and their friends and families as a result of assault and ways that close to Silk, the political, economic and social elements of society must struggle to harmonize the changes, he thought.

Benson emphasized the seriousness which rape itself, the effect of an assault may have for relationships between the victim and a spouse. When the victim blame the husband or university, they include the inability of the victim to return sexual activity; inability of victims to even talk about the attack; jealousy, and the breakup of marriages. He also said that "often spouses and lovers blame themselves for not preventing the attack or the victim for being a victim."

"Nobody comes to an assault in a premeditated state, even if the personal characteristics, histories that affect how we will cope. Support systems (families and friends) are another important factor the whole healing process."

Hall described the medical, counseling and security services available to victims of assault at Hopkins. "We provide a good security and services. They're not perfect; one incident is better than none. One should not be tolerated.

"Yet at the same time you should be aware of where you live. Hopkins is sometimes deceptive because it is an urban campus, though a beautiful one."

Next Tuesday, October 30, Dr. Cortland Robinson will lecture on The Law and the Legal System. After the speech, representatives from various offices on campus will discuss their services and the legal system.
RENT CONTROL

How Will This Affect You?

Question

Yes
✓ ECONOMIC IMPLICATIONS
✓ HOUSING AVAILABILITY
✓ POLITICAL REVERBERATIONS

No

Decide For Yourself:

Informational Debates

Tues. Oct. 30th • 4:00pm • L-V Room
Dr. Bruce Hamilton and Dr. David Harvey

Wed., Oct. 31st • 7:00pm • Remsen 101
Keep Baltimore Best and Campaign for Rent Control

SPONSORED BY THE NEW POLITICAL CAUCUS,
THE STUDENT COUNCIL AND
THE OFFICE OF THE CHAPLAIN

Zionist Activist Organizing Conference

MIDDLE ATLANTIC REGION
NOV. 9-11
FRIDAY EVENING - SUNDAY MORNING

Jewish Community Center
6125 Montrose Rd.
Rockville, Md.

REGISTRATION FORM

NAME ___________________________ SCHOOL ___________________________
ADDRESS ______________________ PHONE ___________________________ vegetarian __________ will need sign interpreter ____________ am shomer/shomeret shabbat

Enclose $17 registration and an estimate of your travel costs if you require a travel subsidy. RETURN BY OCTOBER 31 TO:
AZYF
2027 Mass Ave. NW
Washington, D.C. 20036
PHONE: 202-387-8224

NOTE: Please try to raise travel subsidies locally. PLEASE remember to bring a sleeping bag and musical instruments.

"A non-political Jew is a contradiction in terms..."

1979 MILTON S. EISENHOWER SYMPOSIUM

PRESENTS

THE DIRECTION OF TECHNOLOGY —
CHOOSING TOMORROW

Dr. EDWARD DAVID

Science and Business

President, Exxon Research and Engineering Co; Former Presidential Advisor

Dr. JOSEPH WEIZENBAUM

The Impact of Computers

Professor of Computer Science, MIT; author of Computer Power and Human Reason

Monday, Oct 29 at 4 P.M.

SHRIVER HALL

Admission is free and open to the public
To the Editor:

The past several years have been filled with controversy and change at Hopkins. In the past, the administration has often made decisions that have not been popular with the student body. However, the decision to increase tuition has been particularly controversial. The News-Letter has been one of the primary outlets for student voices, and it has been essential in providing a platform for students to express their concerns and opinions.

The increase in tuition has raised many concerns among students. It has led to protests and demonstrations on campus. Many students feel that the increase is unfair and unreasonable, and they question the administration's decision-making process. The News-Letter has played a crucial role in documenting the events surrounding the tuition increase, providing students with a comprehensive account of what happened.

The administration has defended its decision, stating that it was necessary to keep the University solvent. However, students argue that the increase is not justified and that it disproportionately affects those who are already struggling financially. The News-Letter has published many letters from students expressing their thoughts and concerns about the tuition increase.

In conclusion, the News-Letter has been a vital resource for students, providing a platform for their voices to be heard. It has played a crucial role in documenting the events surrounding the tuition increase and has helped to bring attention to the concerns of students. As a result, the News-Letter has become an integral part of the Hopkins community, and it continues to be an essential voice for students.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
The referendum endorsing the boycott of Nestle Co. products should be defeated. The Student Council has the right, as the elected representatives of the students, to take positions on public issues. However, before I could have to find out more about the little about the issue of this referendum, tell the Student Council, and the supporters of this boycott, that they will not give their support to projects and purposes they know little about.

---

G.R.O.

It is the position of the Graduate Representative Organization that the Chaplain's Office provides a worthwhile service to the Hopkins community and we actively support its efforts.

One vital aspect of a university education entails the exposure to broad social issues. The Chaplain's Office provides a forum for diverse viewpoints on a wide range of topics of general community interest. Those who view their time at Hopkins as entirely a preparation for a profession, isolated from the problems and controversies of the world, are failing both themselves and the community in which they live. The Chaplain's Office deserves your support in performing its crucial educational function.

for the GRO

Rabin Becker
Mark Kornbluh
Mike Schwerin
Bobbie Larson
Roger Felix

No Choices

To the Editor:

I do not consider myself a radical, nor do I wish to promote "authentic socialism" (heaven forbid!), but I feel that I must disagree with the editorial and a couple of the letters in last week's News-Letter.

There seems to be a raucous uproar over the university funded Office of the Chaplain and its sponsorship of various "leftist" events. "They are not supposed to use my tuition dollars to support projects I don't support..." etc. The truth of the matter is our tuition dollars should be used for education, and the purpose of education is to enable people to make intelligent decisions. Intelligent decisions are made after one thoroughly examines opposing viewpoints and chooses between them. The Office of the Chaplain strives to give alternate views the exposure and attention they deserve.

We are constantly being deluged with conservative viewpoints from the faculty and the administration. I find the very nature of my pre-professional preparation gears me towards the conservative tendencies of my future career. Therefore I welcome the activities of the Office of the Chaplain as a breath of fresh air. As graduation quickly approaches, I am more and more thankful to the Office of the Chaplain for the depth it has added to my education.

All I am asking is, please, give those of us with minds of our own the opportunity to choose intelligently.

Frank Kim

Viewpoints

To the Editor:

Yes, this is another letter concerning the Office of The Chaplain. First I would like to say that Dr. Wickwire is doing a wonderful job and I am pleased to see my tuition dollars go towards his office. In case Mr. Einolf is interested, I am not a "radical on full scholarship," I am not affiliated with any specific organizations on campus (especially not the Chaplain's Office), I am just a student who happens to care about the moral state of our society and who appreciates the change of view-point presented by the Chaplain's Office and I wish all my tuition dollars which are paid alone by my family were to go to such worthy groups.

Julie Davies '80

Money

To the Editor:

Letters have piled into the N-L Office accusing me of being a heartless beast with a mind for only money. These allegations are not totally false, as I have a high regard for the almighty dollar, but my lack of heart is unfounded. Contrary to some beliefs, I do support several causes and I even endorse several of the programs that are supported by that anthesia Chaplain's Office.

Unfortunately, a person who works thirty hours a week and carries eighteen credits, as well as being indebted to everyone from the mayor of New York to the toad down the street who can pick football better than he can, just can't cut the mustard when it comes to paying over four thousand dollars a year to boycott a foolish chocolate company.

David M. Einolf

---

The Placement Bureau

INTERVIEWS

THE PLACEMENT BUREAU
ROOM 135, GARLAND HALL
10/29/79

Digital Communications Corporation
Harvard School of City and Regional Planning
10/30/79

Veterns Administration
10/30/79

BDM Corporation
10/31/79

Singer Company - Link Division
10/31/79

University of Rochester - MBA
11/1/79

Electronic Modules Corporation
11/1/79

M.I.T. Lincoln Laboratories
11/2/79

E-Systems (ECC Division)
11/2/79

New York University Law School
11/2/79

University of Pittsburgh - MBA
11/5/79

intel Corporation
11/5/79

Wellness Corporation
11/6/79

RCA Corporation
11/6/79

Giant Food Incorporated
11/7/79

Data General
11/8/79

Naval Civilian Personnel Command
11/8/79

University of Maryland Law School
11/8/79

Becton Dickinson & Company
11/9/79

Softech Corporation
12/18/79

Science Applications Incorporated
11/27/79

Ford University Graduate School
11/12/79

IBM
11/14/79

New York Law School
11/15/79

Westinghouse Electric Corporation
11/15/79

Federal Bureau of Investigation
11/16/79

McDonnell Douglas Astrionics Co., Western Division

If you are interested in signing up for an interview, stop by the Placement Office as soon as possible. Appointments will be assigned on a first-come, first-serve basis. School catalogs and company literature will be available.
Pursue the Orcs with the Riders of Rohan,
Bid farewell to Sam and Frodo...

All the romance, all the inspiration, all the unforgettable atmosphere of the great trilogy Lord of the Rings comes alive through the vision of artist Joan Wyatt. And with an introduction and commentaries on the art by Jessica Yates, Secretary to the Tolkien Society of Great Britain.

Thirty original paintings, all in breathtaking full color, await to delight and invite you to Middle Earth.

A MIDDLE EARTH ALBUM
Paintings by Joan Wyatt
Inspired by Tolkien's Lord of the Rings
$7.95 paper; $14.95 cloth,
/ Simon and Schuster

---

Hair Unlimited
3120 St. Paul Street

*Hurry! Last Five Days**

During October all precision haircuts are $5.00 reduced for our anniversary.

Specializing in perms, henna, highlighting and unisex hairstyling.

Modern Hair for Modern People
Open Tuesday through Saturday from 10:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. By Appointment Only
PHONE 235-0741

---

Beck's
That's A Glass Of Beer!
Beck's Largest-selling German Beer in America! Understandably. Beer of classic character. Brewed in Germany for more than 400 years! Light or dark. Beck's is incomparable.

---

Need Car Insurance?
Thousands in the Baltimore area prefer Criterion. Here's why:

1. Convenient Payment Plans
Our low down payments and convenient payment plans make it easier to pay for your car insurance.

2. Discounts for Safe Drivers
Your rates will be reduced when you renew your policy if you have a claim-free record with Criterion.

3. Countrywide Claim Service
With a network of 2,500 claim representatives throughout the U.S. and Canada, you're protected wherever you drive.

4. Money Saving Deductibles
Criterion offers several higher deductibles which can save you money on Comprehensive and Collision coverage.

5. Dependable Protection
Criterion is a financially strong company which insures thousands of your friends and neighbors in the Baltimore area.

For a free rate quotation, call or visit our local office. We open Monday thru Friday from 8 to 5.

Call: 821-9490
Suite 110, 210 Allegheny Avenue

Criterion Insurance Company
"THE AUTO INSURANCE SPECIALISTS"
E.B. White, the great American essayist, must be feeling awfully lonesome these days at his home on the coast of Maine. At 80, White is one of a vanishing breed of writers who met and became friends while working on a struggling new weekly called The New Yorker. Their prose—graceful but simple, sophisticated but straightforward—most often dealt with the humor that arose from life's more uncomfortable and ironic situations. Fifty years later, nearly all the creators of that style of prose are gone: James Thurber, Robert Benchley, Frank Sullivan, Dorothy Parker, John McNulty, and now S.J. Perelman, who died last week, at the age of 73.

...Perelman commands a vocabulary that is the despair (and joy) of every writing man. I have to get along with a vocabulary of about fifteen hundred serviceable words that I just use over and over again, trying to rearrange them in an interesting order. Sid is like a Roxy organ that has three decks, fifty stops, and a pride of pedals under the bench. When he wants a word, it's there. Sid even speaks with precision—a fast many a writer is incapable of... In the realm of satire, parody, and burlesque, he has, from the beginning, bowed to none.

--E.B. White, 1968

E.B. White, the great American essayist, must be feeling awfully lonesome these days at his home on the coast of Maine. At 80, White is one of a vanishing breed of writers who met and became friends while working on a struggling new weekly called The New Yorker. Their prose—graceful but simple, sophisticated but straightforward—most often dealt with the humor that arose from life's more uncomfortable and ironic situations. Fifty years later, nearly all the creators of that style of prose are gone: James Thurber, Robert Benchley, Frank Sullivan, Dorothy Parker, John McNulty, and now S.J. Perelman, who died last week, at the age of 73.

Any encyclopedia would put these written under the sub-category of "humorist," but, as Thurber cautioned, "To call such people 'humorists,' a loose-fitting and ugly word, is to miss the nature of their dilemma and the dilemma of their nature. The little wheels of their invention are set in motion by the damp hand of melancholy."

Like his colleagues at The New Yorker, Perelman was a sedate person who made a career out of writing comic pieces. "He was utterly serious, but his medium was humor," remarked William Shawn, the magazine's current editor. "He was widely appreciated and the dilemma of their nature. The little wheels of their invention are set in motion by the damp hand of melancholy."

Though not necessarily a cut above his cohorts on The New Yorker, Perelman was a cut apart—more biting, more vitriolic, and often funnier. "Generally speaking," he once said in an interview, "I don't believe in kindly humor—I don't think it exists. One of the most shameful utterances to stem from the human mouth is Will Rogers' 'I never met a man I didn't like.'" The absolute antithesis in Oscar Wilde on the frothbound Englishman. The unspeakable in full pursuit of the unspeakable. W.C.'s remark contains, in briefest span, the Englishman: 'The unspeakable in full pursuit of the unspeakable,' he once said in an interview, "I don't believe in kindly humor—I don't think it exists. One of the most shameful utterances to stem from the human mouth is Will Rogers' 'I never met a man I didn't like.'"

Sidney Joseph Perelman was born in Brooklyn on Feb. 1, 1904, and grew up in Providence, R.I. While his father worked unceasingly as a machinist, a dry-goods merchant, and a poultry farmer, the boy crammed his mind with the popular novels and movies of the era. His ambition was to be a cartoonist. He practiced on the cardboard boxes his father brought home from the dry-goods store, and later, at Brown University, Perelman drew cartoons for the college humor magazine. Following his graduation in 1924, he landed a job with the humor weekly, Judge.

Perelman worked as a cartoonist for several years until he noticed that the captions were getting longer and longer. They eventually replaced the cartoons and became the prototypes of the essay with which he would later earn his reputation.

White observed that Perelman's pieces "usually had a lead sentence, or lead paragraph, that was as funny as the essays themselves. A glance at the table of contents of Crazy Like A Fox (formerly published as The Best of S.J. Perelman) reveals: "A Farewell to Groucho," "A Fox On You, Mine Goody Host," "Midwinter Facial Trends," "Beat Me, Post-Impressionist Daddy," "Farewell, My Lovely Appetizer," and "Well, Roll Me In A Turkish Towel!"

"The titles lent themselves to plagiarism," the New York Times pointed out in a front page obituary, "but Mr. Perelman was great at it. In an interview, he once said that he was writing his autobiography, and would call it 'Smiling, the Boy Fell Dead.' A play promptly opened under that name. Thereafter, he said his autobiography would be called 'The Highbury Saga.'"

I was collaborating with S.J. Perelman on Monkey Business. We had a difference of opinion on a line. "If you think I am not a success in the screenplays for Around the World in 80 Days and the Classic Marx Brothers movies, Monkey Business and Horse Feathers, Perelman's scenario for Around the World in 80 Days won him an Oscar, but his involvement with the Marx Brothers proved somewhat less rewarding."

Groucho Marx met Perelman in 1930 and asked him to come to Hollywood to work on the Marx's next film. At first the two men struck up a friendship and even formed a small organization of screenwriters called The West Side Writing and Author's Club (Perelman's title). But then, as Groucho put it, "Things changed." Despite making what most critics call the major contributions to the screenplays for Monkey Business and Horse Feathers, Perelman left Tinsel Town, embittered over the chopping up of his scripts. After Perelman wrote a caustic article about the experience (with unkind comments aimed at Groucho in particular), his feud with Marx hit full throttle.

"I was collaborating with S.J. Perelman on Monkey Business. We had a difference of opinion on a line. "If you think I am not a success in the screenplays for Around the World in 80 Days and the Classic Marx Brothers movies, Monkey Business and Horse Feathers, Perelman's scenario for Around the World in 80 Days won him an Oscar, but his involvement with the Marx Brothers proved somewhat less rewarding."

Groucho Marx met Perelman in 1930 and asked him to come to Hollywood to work on the Marx's next film. At first the two men struck up a friendship and even formed a small organization of screenwriters called The West Side Writing and Author's Club (Perelman's title). But then, as Groucho put it, "Things changed." Despite making what most critics call the major contributions to the screenplays for Monkey Business and Horse Feathers, Perelman left Tinsel Town, embittered over the chopping up of his scripts. After Perelman wrote a caustic article about the experience (with unkind comments aimed at Groucho in particular), his feud with Marx hit full throttle.

Nat Perrin, another collaborator on Monkey Business, said, "I can't remember exactly what Perelman wrote about Marx, but it was not flattering. I recall now, a more or less personal way. I was shocked when I read it because I always felt there was a very warm personal feeling between them... I had mentioned it to Groucho and had no idea how hurt, angry and bitter he was about it."

From then on, the relationship between Perelman and Groucho was cautious at best. Later, the two... were heard together on a radio interview with Kenneth Tynan ("Tynan thought it would be great," Groucho recalled, "hastening both me and Perelman away."). It ended up being the dullest fucking interview there ever was. Perelman was trying to outdo me and I was trying to outdo him and we both stunk...), and around 1960, Perelman sent a photograph of himself to Marx. It was inscribed: "To Groucho, in memory of our many campaigns in the Sudan."

Groucho, nevertheless, maintained that Perelman was "a son of a bitch with a head as big as my desk," and Perelman would one day recollect, "I did two films with them, which in its way is perhaps greatest distinction in life, because anybody who ever worked on any picture for the Marx Brothers said he would rather be eating a gally ear and lashed at ten-minute intervals than ever work for these sons of bitches again."

A few years before his death, Groucho softened a little and wrote in his pictorial autobiography, The Groucho Philke, "In recent years the press has concocted a feud between myself and Perelman. Groucho and Me, and no such feud ever existed. Sid has often been asked about writing for the Marx Brothers, and I have often answered questions about his contributions to our films. What Sid and I both agree on is that he is a great writer with a brilliant comic mind that didn't always mesh well with the lunacies of the Marx Brothers."

I believe it was Hippolyte Taine—or possibly Monroe Taine, the tailor, a philosophical chap who used to press my pants 40 years ago in the Village—who once observed that immortality is a chance matter, subject to the caprice of the wench.

—S.J. Perelman

Unlike poets, playwrights, novelists, and other writers of grands orope, humorists—or, in deference to Thurber, the authors of light pieces—customarily resign themselves to the fact that they are second-rate citizens in the world of Literature. Typically, Perelman gave little or no thought to the issue of immortality. In fact, he seemed to anticipate the approaching extinction of his species. "The handful of chumps who still live amongst us are as likely as the survivors of Fort Zinderen; a few more massacres by television and picture journalism and the species will have followed in our wake at the hands of the atom-smashers, and a beautiful girl in a diaphanous veil of mossy dell, in every nook and cranny, these delicious cattle-drivers who had come down to New York for the hundred weight of quahogs, a shagreen spectacle case with Dresden-dainty hands and feet. I noticed that she was eating a small umbrella-shaped object and asked her what it was.

"An umbrella," she replied shortly, descending from the train at Seventy-second Street. Needless to say, the incident did not pass unnoticed, and I retired in confusion amidst the hearty laughter of several wealthy cattle-drivers who had come down to New York for the day on the team cars."—Poisonous Mushrooms.

"Now that Jack Frost's magic brush has made every dell a delight with delicate traceries of ice and snow, inviting each of us to turn Wenderveg and roam the woods with a dog in his haversack, what pulse does not quicken? My pulse, sweetie, and don't forget it."—Sweet and Hot.

"I guess I'm just an old mad scientist at bottom. Give me an underground laboratory, half a dozen atom-smashers, and a beautiful girl in a diaphanous veil to take down my Stradivarius, pile it on the fire and curl up with a black coffee."

—Capt'n Future, Block That Kick.

"Sometimes when I have worked for hours in vain over a difficult problem in Baker Street and my keen hawklike profile is drawn with fatigue, I like to exchange my sweatsuit for a crisp white surgical tunic, polish up my optical mirror, and examine the corset advertisements in the New York Herald Tribune rotogravure section and the various women's magazines. It must be made clear at the outset that my motives are the purest and my curiosity that of the scientific research worker rather than the sex maniac. Of course, I can be broken down under cross-examination: I like a trim ankle as well as anyone, but once I start scrubbing up and adjusting the operative mask, Materia Medica comes in the door and Buffalo flies out the window."—Soup For The Gander.

"Anybody who happened to be a buffalo last year (or was supporting during his taxable year one or more buffalos closely dependent upon him) is going to have a pretty hollow feeling in the pit of his stomach when he gets a hanger at the July issue of The Field. In that excellent British sporting magazine, one "Old Harrow Boy" attacks the custom of shouting and waving the arms and hat to break up stampeding buffalos, and actually suggests whistling as a better means of dispersing lawful assemblies of bisons."—Buffalo Of The World, Unite!
Apocalypse Now

BY BILL BARTO

I suspect that few audiences around the nation applauded at the end of Francis Ford Coppola's new film, Apocalypse Now. The two-and-one-half-hour odyssey through the depths of the Vietnam war, an average viewer reacts with little more than numbed attention. It is a powerful, emotionally draining film that must be experienced to be believed.

Coppola, the film's producer, director, and co-screenwriter, summed up his purpose in creating this work in a sense, "The film's purpose is to give its audience a sense of the horror, the madness, the sensuousness, and the moral dilemma of the Vietnam war." After seeing the film twice, I can say that he has succeeded, but not perfectly. The film has moments of spectacular artistic success as well as scenes which can only be described as failures.

The story revolves around the adventures of a Green Beret Captain named Willard while on a special mission somewhere in South Vietnam. The role of Willard is a difficult one, and six well-known actors turned down the role before Marlon Brando accepted. Willard succeeds in making the characterization of Willard a credible one, with human strengths and weaknesses. Captain Willard's mission is to track down and kill another Green Beret officer, Colonel Kurtz (Marlon Brando), who has been illegally operating against the Cambodian enemy with native troops, from a Navy patrol boat.

Willard searches for Kurtz along the rivers of Vietnam. Coppola uses the vessel and its crew to show the audience as much of the war as possible. The boat's crew is a cross-section of America's military and its officers.

The story takes on a surreal, almost mythical quality. But watching the film after 30 or so minutes of Brando's ramblings provides an unsettling finale.

Coppola has built his reputation as a film-maker on creating suspenseful, action-packed works such as The Godfather and its sequel, The Godfather Part II. He is at his best when staging a gunfight or battle. The first two hours of Apocalypse Now is dramatic, radically altering the entire mood and intensity of the film. Here the story takes on a surreal, almost mythical quality. But watching the film after 30 or so minutes of Brando's ramblings provides an unsettling finale.

Sixteen years have passed since he sat on the managing editor of Esquire. Norman Mailer, Hunter Thompson, Adam "The Norman Conquest, a British comedy in the P. G. Wodehouse style about two sisters, a brother, and their southwest London weekend together in an English country house, once again this Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. Norman is the husband of one of the sisters; his "conquests" are female. The confusion arises because this is the second play in a series of three, so the audience is expected to know more than it does.

What the Vietnam film genre now needs is a film concentrating on the plight of the ordinary US soldier in Vietnam. Several minor efforts have been made in this direction, such as the 1977 film Boys of Company C. There are currently several good novels on the best-sellers lists that could serve as the basis for such a film: James Webb's Fields of Fire or Michael Herr's Dispatches. If the American public could see even a little of what U.S. troops experienced in Vietnam, perhaps it could look at our foreign policy more realistically.

Despite his shortcomings, Coppola also scores a few successes in the course of the film. The special effects are fantastic, making most of the sequences realistic play in a "realistic" film. Coppola cut out the film an uncommon intensity, enough to make you flinch and cower. Apocalypse Now is an undeniably powerful film.

Coppola deals successfully with the theme of war reversing our perception of normality and insanity. Through the course of the film, we watch the main characters transform and mutate by the war. The very fact that Kurtz is being assuaged for successfully operating against the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese is a symbol of this madness.

Conquests Defeated

BY STEPHANIE REYNOLDS

The Barntowners are performing Alan Ayckbourn's The Norman Conquests, a British comedy in the P. G. Wodehouse style about two sisters, a brother, and their southwest London weekend together in an English country house, once again this Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

Norman is the husband of one of the sisters; his "conquests" are female. The confusion arises because this is the second play in a series of three, so the audience is expected to know more than it does.

What the Vietnam film genre now needs is a film concentrating on the plight of the ordinary US soldier in Vietnam. Several minor efforts have been made in this direction, such as the 1977 film Boys of Company C. There are currently several good novels on the best-sellers lists that could serve as the basis for such a film: James Webb's Fields of Fire or Michael Herr's Dispatches. If the American public could see even a little of what U.S. troops experienced in Vietnam, perhaps it could look at our foreign policy more realistically.

Despite his shortcomings, Coppola also scores a few successes in the course of the film. The special effects are fantastic, making most of the sequences realistic play in a "realistic" film. Coppola cut out the film an uncommon intensity, enough to make you flinch and cower. Apocalypse Now is an undeniably powerful film.

Coppola deals successfully with the theme of war reversing our perception of normality and insanity. Through the course of the film, we watch the main characters transform and mutate by the war. The very fact that Kurtz is being assuaged for successfully operating against the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese is a symbol of this madness.

Conquests Defeated
ITS SECOND GREAT WEEK...

Barnstormers Presents

NORMAN
CONQUESTS

Living Together
a comical farce

8:00 P.M.
October 26 & 27
in the Barn Theatre
Admission:
$1.00 Students
$1.50 General
Children under 12 free

Senior Class Film Series Presents...

Little Big Man

DUSTIN HOFFMAN  FAYE DUNAWAY
CHIEF DAN GEORGE

"Profoundly Crazy!
Uproarious!"
—Vincent Canby, N.Y. Times

"A Genuine Mark
of Genius!"
—John Schubeck, ABC TV

Admission: $1.50 $1.00 with JHU/Goucher I.D.
Friday, October 26 7:00, 9:15 & 11:30
Saturday, October 27 7:00, 9:15 & 11:30
Shaffer 3

Coming Next Week:
Stanley Kubrick's  A Clockwork Orange

Weekend Wonder Flix presents

HALLOWEEN HORRORS
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
October 26 & 27

KLUTE &
7:00 9:00

"MANIAC"

SHRIVER HALL

SAT., OCT. 27th 9-1
AT CHESTER'S PLACE
(LEVERING HALL)
"...our rockets always blow up."
The Johns Hopkins University Office of Special Events Presents

"AN EVENING WITH (THE REAL) MARIA VON TRAPP:
The True Story of The Sound of Music"

Prior to Mrs. Von Trapp's talk, the Children's Chorus of Maryland will perform excerpts from "The Sound of Music"

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 8:00 P.M.
SHRIVER HALL AUDITORIUM
THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY

Tickets: Regular - $4.00; Full-time students and Senior Citizens (both with I.D.) - $3.00.

Available: Office of Special Events, Shriver Hall (338-7157) or send check made payable to special Events with self-addressed stamped envelope and mail to Office of Special Events, Shriver Hall, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland 21218.

JHU GAY CAUCUS

ACTIVITIES CALENDAR

Consciousness-Raising Groups
(Meet almost every Wed. evening)

Oct. 31: "Coming Out"
Nov. 7: "Jealousy and Possessiveness"
Nov. 14: "Religion"
Nov. 28: "Cruising"

We meet regularly on Wednesday nights at 7:30 in Conference Room A. See weekly Campus Notes or contact us in the SAC office.

Look for our Glass Pavilion Dance on Saturday, Nov. 10, 9:00pm-1:00am.
Music by Starline Disco!!!

The Rathskeller Announces
Imported

DORTMUNDER UNION

Light Beer
Pilsener Type

on draft

75¢ per glass - $3.75 per pitcher

Sponsored by The Senior Class
Crecco Gains 119 Yards On Ground

Bluejay Gridders Upped Georgetown

BY ARTHIE CHOWE

A stirring come-from-behind victory over previously unbeaten Georgetown last Saturday made believers of those who questioned the strength of the rapidly improving Johns Hopkins University football team.

Behind 0-14 at the quarter, the Blue Jays managed to score and leave the field down by 2 points thanks in part to a surprise 2-point conversion by quarterback Jim Margraff. After Jeffarie Garrett, Georgetown marched to the 3 yard line where Hopkins defensive end Kevin Keefer recovered a fumble. A 10 yard pass from Margraff to Bill Stromberg caught the Hoyas by surprise and Stromberg outran both Johns Hopkins defenders and Mary Washington defenders for a 47 yard field goal for what is an all-time Johns Hopkins record.

The win, which brought the season record to 3 and 2 was a very satisfying one for the Blue Jay squad, will add an unusual •

“Most Valuable Player” last year Peter Garvey, a 6’ 8” traditional manner with an emphasis on water excellence. In addition to these two aspects of the training program, Coach Tim Welsh has added an extra psychological measure, that of cage season. Peter was named to last year’s All - other promising new freshmen athletes. The players, who have already begun practicing with returning veterans of last year’s controversial-plagued squad, will add an unusual amount of height to Hopkins’ traditionally small squad. None of the Hopkins prospects are 6’ 5” or taller, and two cross the tape at more than 6’ 7”.

Another talented addition to the Blue Jay squad is Sonny Kubicka, a 6’ 11” guard from Saint Clair Area High School in Pennsylvania. His team won its District Championship in 1977. 78 and last year was an Eastern Pennsylvania finalist. Sonny made McDonald’s All-American team last year and was named to Hopkins All-State team as a junior and senior. He was also named to last year’s All-Elvis era.

The longest season of sports at JHU has begun. The swimming season, which starts in late September and culminates in the last week of each with the NCAA championships, has come into full swing. Forty-six Hopkins men and women have begun what can be termed a “rough” training schedule, practicing day in and day out in an effort to produce another championship season.

For a swimmer, training early in the morning with what is known as “strength and stroke” training to build for speed and style. In the afternoon, the Jays train in the traditional manner with an emphasis on water excellence. In addition to these two aspects of the training program, Coach Tim Welsh has added an extra psychological measure, that of goal-setting and mental preparation, to tone the minds of his wrestlers to that “bottom line” of his successful swimming program: excellence.

However, more than the mental excellence he demands from his swimmers, Coach Welsh encourages team spirit, often boosting morale simply by being himself. Welsh has an endless amount of faith and confidence in his swimmers and “gets more and more excited about Hopkins swimming each year.”

But hurt by graduation in his women’s swimming, Welsh is looking forward to help from seven new faces, the results of several promising new freshmen athletes. The players, who have consistently finished in the top thirty percentile of the tougher small college division, are all returning to swimming after short departures, and each looks like a potential champion.

While freshmen make up a third of the twenty women swimming this year, it is hard to forget the contributions of this year’s returning competition. Most notable among these is Captain Jackie Johnson, whose strong performances almost dominated last year’s Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) freestyle competition and have taken her to two national championships. Junior Monika Bay, the most versatile of last season’s team, is returning with strong national times in the 400m and 500m free. Also returning in the team’s premiere distance freestyler, Gail Berkowitz, who turned in her finest season last year and is looking for a better one this time around.

For the first time, Hopkins women will be competing in the newly formed AIAW Division III, with divisions decided on the basis of available scholarship moneys. The newly formed division system replaces a two division (small/large college) format and will have a great effect on Hopkins women, who have consistently finished in the top thirty percentile of the tougher small college division.

The women are also hoping to regain the MAC championship trophy which they lost to Gettysburg College last season. In this light, the Jay’s first meet of the season is a crucial one. After the Intra-Squad Comfort meet, on p. 18.
Schmidt’s of Philadelphia

Quality without Clydesdales.

Honesty, we have nothing against corporate cavalry. We regard it with affection. It’s a quaint anachronism, like royalty in American beer slogans. But, to nitpick for a moment, we’ve been brewing Schmidt’s fifteen years longer. And age has taught us wisdom: “The beer that might make Philadelphia LIMOUS.

Schmidt’s

Now available at the Rat
40¢ a glass $2.25 a pitcher

1979 ALBERT SHAW LECTURES

BRADFORD PERKINS
Diplomatic Historian, University of Michigan

“Vision and Reality: The Sources of American Foreign Policy”

Monday, October 29, 4 p.m.
Listening-Viewing Room
Hopkins Union

Tuesday, October 30, Noon
Mergenthaler 111

The University Community Is Invited To Attend

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY BOOK CENTER

Deflation SALE

On 395 Outstanding Books from
The Johns Hopkins University Press

Featuring DOUBLE-DIGIT SAVINGS
at DISCOUNTS UP TO 85%
Jays Add Height

cont. from p. 16

Hakimiller, a 6'6", 200-pounder who received an Honorable Mention on the All-East Connecticut team while playing in Willimantic, Connecticut.

From the local scene, Coach Amen is expecting two well-known area high school standouts. Gary Benninghoff was a highly regarded junior at McDonough, but sat out the last hoop season. Ben Civiletti, whose father, U.S. Attorney General Benjamin H. Civiletti, was a Hopkins basketball star many years ago, was the leading scorer at St. James School in Hagerstown and excelled in 3 different tournaments. Other newcomers to the squad include Bobby Voight, a personable 5'9" guard from Massapequa Park, Long Island.

John Soley, captain of Oratory Prep team in Summit, N.J.; Greg Gunston, an All-American selection from Commack High School in Suffolk County, and Mark Zielinski, a transfer student from Louisiana State University who was named to several All-Tournament teams while playing for Catholic High School in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

While coach Amen speaks of his 1979 recruits as "big men," his rookies will have an early opportunity to test their newfound height to the fullest. In their very first game next season they will face-off against the nationally publicized Ralph Sampson when the Blue Jays play the Cavaliers of the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Blank, Collins Return

Swimmers Vie For Gold

cont. from p. 16

Classic they face Gettysburg here at Hopkins at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 28th.

The Comfort Classic is one of the most spiritued occasions here at Hopkins. Named after former swimming coach Frank Comfort, the Classic is a full-fledged meet between the Blues and the Jays, officiated by Maryland State officials and scored as a regular meet.

The competition between the squad is heated and intense, ad the victory often hinges on the final relay event of the night. As a spectator show, the Classic is second to none. Held on Friday night, Nov. 16, the Classic is free to the Hopkins Community and begins at 7:00 p.m. in the Athletic Center.

While the Classic is the first event on the men's swimming team calendar, it is by no means the toughest event on their card. Aside from a full house of Division III opponents, including second-ranked Kenyon College, the Jays will swim against a tough schedule of Division I opponents and have been invited to the Tarheel Invitational at Chapel Hill, N.C., where they will be in competition with some of the finest of the Division I squads.

Jennings and Gildersleeve, aided by aggressive defensive play, scored impressive victories in the opening round of the BIA football playoffs Tuesday. By coordinating a sharp passing attack with strong defensive line play, Jennings handed their opponents, the Wildmen, their first loss of the season. Gildersleeve jumped out to an early 13-0 lead over heavily favored DU and held on to win the contest 13-6. This was the eighth consecutive victory for the "Sleeve 7." In other playoff games, TEP kept its record unblemished by easily handling The Dregs in winning 13-0.

The TEP team is unbeaten and unscouted upon this year in intramural football. This Year's Model also scored an opening round victory by defeating the Untouchables. This Year's Model plays Jennings in the semi-finals. Gildersleeve and TEP put their undefeated records on the line as they meet in the other semi-final game. The intramural football championship game will be played at Wyman Field on Saturday, Oct. 27, at 12:00 noon.

Jennings and Gildersleeve, aided by aggressive defensive play, scored impressive victories in the opening round of the BIA football playoffs Tuesday. By coordinating a sharp passing attack with strong defensive line play, Jennings handed their opponents, the Wildmen, their first loss of the season. Gildersleeve jumped out to an early 13-0 lead over heavily favored DU and held on to win the contest 13-6. This was the eighth consecutive victory for the "Sleeve 7." In other playoff games, TEP kept its record unblemished by easily handling The Dregs in winning 13-0.

The TEP team is unbeaten and unscouted upon this year in intramural football. This Year's Model also scored an opening round victory by defeating the Untouchables. This Year's Model plays Jennings in the semi-finals. Gildersleeve and TEP put their undefeated records on the line as they meet in the other semi-final game. The intramural football championship game will be played at Wyman Field on Saturday, Oct. 27, at 12:00 noon.

Do You Know Where Your Parents Will Be on the Weekend of November 3 and 4?

JOHNS HOPKINS PARENTS' WEEKEND 1979

SATURDAY
10:00 a.m.—12 Noon
Hospitality Coffee Hour
Glass Pavilion

1:30 p.m.
Football Game
(Hopkins vs. Swarthmore)

4:30 p.m.—9:00 p.m.
Maryland Style Dinner
Athletic Center, Dance Band

SUNDAY
10:00—1:00 p.m.
New Orleans Champagne Brunch Glass Pavilion, featuring jazz band

1:30 p.m.
Open House
Sponsored by the Black Student Union, featuring the Black Student Union Gospel Choir
Garrett Room, M.S.E. Library

Tickets still available
Sponsored by the Office of Student Activities and the Hopkins Union

ERIC THE GEEK

The Geek went 3-3 last week but his boisterous adversary went 1-5 much to the delight of the Geek. Remember, Dixie Dick, hot air doesn't pick winners. The Geek from his winnings—you think I give you readers my best picks—giving Dixie Dick a one-way ticket to Mexico where the Southern-born one can offer his sidkick Willie as an apology to Sambo for taking on the Geek. After Mexico, it's on to Paraguay where Dixie can go back into retirement. Before you leave Dixie, deep off a case of Schmidt's at my office. Close out your bookie's bank account with the initialized teams.

Washington -6 New Orleans
Philadelphia -2 Cincinnati
St. Louis -7 Cleveland

Record 1-0 in the Northern Union.

DIXIE DICK'S PICKS

A howl of pain went up last week when the double D went 1-5 on last week's collegiate prognostications. "A three-year-old chimp with glaucoma could make a better pick," my ever-miffed companion complained. Unfortunately, sightless chimps are in short supply. But your erstwhile picker, in a never-ending effort to improve his standings, image, and bankroll, presents a fresh selection of psychic impressions. Death to Sambo! Bring on the beer!

Colorado St. -7 Air Force
Nebraska -72 Colorado
Louisiana St. -3 Florida St.
Harvard -1 Princeton
Oklahoma -17 Iowa St.
Pittsburgh -7 Navy
Record 1-5 or .167
There's a Way to Help People...

The United Way

The most exciting musical event of the season!

The Goucher College Chorus,
The U. of Virginia Glee Club
The Children's Chorus of Maryland present
Benjamin Britten's "Saint Nicolas"

parents weekend
sunday october 28
4:00 pm
Kraushaar Auditorium Admission Free

"Dear Dad,
Send less money, I'm flying Piedmont home."  Bill

Piedmont Airlines' discount fares are like money from home!

Super Saver Fare saves you a super 25% (Fri. thru Sun.) or 35% (Mon. thru Thurs.) roundtrip if you make your reservations and ticket purchase 30 days before departure, and stay at least 7 days.

Weekend Excursion Fare means a 30% roundtrip discount if you leave Saturday and return any day except Sunday (12:01 pm until midnight) or Friday.

For complete information, including time and reservation requirements and fare availability see your travel agent or call Piedmont Airlines. Discount fares subject to change without notice.

FLY PIEDMONT

Baltimore's Oldest Restaurant established 1900

House of Welsh
301 Guilford at Saratoga

Oriole Appreciation Week
Friday, Oct. 26 to Sunday, Nov. 4
featuring Wild Bill Hagy
5:00 p.m. to closing

16 oz T-Bone Steak! $6.95
Filet Mignon $8.95
Imperial Crab $8.95
Served with 2 vegetables, homemade rolls and butter

With lunch or dinner: DRAFT BEER 10'
MIXED DRINKS 25'
(excluding top shelf)

Banquet Room Available
Reservations 685-7158

Sophomores!
Open Class Meeting
This Sunday, October 28th.
9:00 p.m.
Conference Room A

Volunteers needed to participate in a vaccine research study at the Center for Vaccine Development, University of Maryland School of Medicine (Baltimore). Two part study:

1) Outpatient - month of November and December, two short out-patient visits to University Hospital to receive vaccine. Several other short visits to have blood drawn.

2) Inpatient - 14 days (January 2-16) in pleasant dormitory-like ward at University Hospital.

For completion of both parts of study paid approximately $450.00.

Studies are part of ongoing studies of E. coli diarrhea vaccine at the Center for Vaccine Development. All volunteers must be in good health and at least 18 years of age. Accepting volunteers now. For more information about this and other studies, call 528-5328 as soon as possible.
THE GALA ROCK 'N' ROLL QUIZ
WIN ONE CASE OF PABST
AND A $7.50 FOOD CERTIFICATE
LAST WEEK'S QUIZ RESULTS ON PAGE 2

INSTRUCTIONS

1. What prestigious institute did Mick Jagger attend in the Stones' early days?
2. Where is Elvis Costello's new album being recorded?
3. Where did George Harrison write Here Comes the Sun?
4. True or False: The Cavern Club still exists?
5. Who sang harmony to Sam Cooke's lead on Bring It On Home To Me?
6. What two stars died with Buddy Holly in that fatal '59 crash?
7. What member of the Temptations committed suicide?
8. Who is credited with directing Rust Never Sleeps? What is his real name?
9. Roy Orbison is rocking again because he underwent what miraculous operation?
10. According to Jim Morrison, whom can you not petition?
11. In what town was Bruce Springsteen born?
12. What was Led Zeppelin's name before it was the Zep?
13. Who wrote and first sang Take Me to the River?
14. Who wrote and first sang Take Me to the River? (Hint: They were known as the High Rollers at the time.)
15. What was Sid Vicious' given name?

Yeah, well, the King is gone and pretty much forgotten, and the crap on the radio is kinda rotten, but cheer up, Punkie—er, Bunkie. The Gala Rock 'n' Roll Quiz is back, and if that don't bring a smile to your faces, then you're smarter than 1 think. Seriously, gang, the Quizmeister wants you to give this sucker a stab (remember Sid Vicious?). So it's one for the money, two for the show, if you don't try this quiz. then I'm gonna know. Send all entrances to Box 1230 or bring them all to the funky Gatehouse (boy, is this place funky!) by Wednesday at 5:00pm. All N-L staff members and City Paper Music editors are ineligible. Hop to it Hoppies! And good luck, bar chord breath!