

1826, 1832

Hannah Hopkins to Philip Hopkins

2

1-12

MS.78

Dear Philip

being alone this afternoon and my mind turning toward thee as it has often been since I last saw thee with earnest desires for thy welfare and preservation. Dear Philip I often view thee as a tender plant even of the fathers right hand planting. may thee be willing to come under his forming hand and to turn a deaf ear to all the false tho' flattering follies and vanities of this delusive world, often indeed I fervently desire the father of mercies that he would be pleased to be with thee to guard thy tender years from lying vanities. let not sinners entice thee, but keep on the watch tower, shun every appearance of evil I have often to turn over the leaves of my life and to examine myself with respect to my conduct toward you. and altho I may have fallen short in my religious care toward you in many respects while you were under my roof which period I often recur to happy days. yet I am thankful in remembering the state of innocence you appeared to be in which made you happy. and I enjoyed your innocent and pleasures conversation feeling you the nearest and dearest ties left me on this earth, for whom I have devoted my youth and the strength of my days for which I desire no greater joy than to hear of your walking in the truth - as my philep I need not to point out the evil, thou ought to refrain from or the good thou should attend to. believing that thou art well acquainted with that light which will and does make manifest. and that thou know west to choose the good and ^{to} refuse the evil, may it be thy happy experience in every time of trial and they may be many in your large City where temptations abound - but ever remember there is a strong tower a rock of defense where unto thou mayest always flee unto and find refuge - as happiness is our aim. - and I can give my experience - that I never found any in doing wrong - but on the contrary remorse and distress until I believed the wrong was forgiven. - and I think it much easier to keep a watchful care over ourselves to cease to do evil to learn to do well seek peace - and pursue it and peace will be a rich reward there is no enjoyment in this mundane sphere - without it. I have often reflected on the great importance of young men first setting out in life there character about forming the same that is needful for them to take least it should be sullied by any misconduct the eyes of the world is more on such often than after the character is established - may I fondly hope that my sons will begin by the name of Hopkins I think they have it in their power and do not neglect it should it be reversed I shall be greatly disappointed

it is getting dark and I am called to supper must bid thee very affectionally fare well write by minutes

I remain as ever
thy attached Mother

Hannah Hopkins

Philip Haphens

Baltimore

By Mente

[Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

Dear Philip

Being alone this afternoon and my mind turning toward thee as it has often been since I last saw thee with earnest desires for thy welfare and preservation. Dear Philip, I often view thee as a tender plant even of the Father's right hand planting. May thee be willing to come under his forming hand and to turn a deaf ear to all the false tho flattering follies and vanities of this delusive world. Often indeed I fervently desire the Father of Mercies that he would be pleased to be with thee to guard thy tender years from lying vanities. Let not sinners entice thee, but keep on the watch tower, shun every appearance of evil. I have often to turn over the leaves of my life and to examine myself with respect to my conduct toward you and altho I may have fallen short in my religious care in many respects while you were under my roof, which period I often recur to as happy days, yet I am thankful in remembering the state of innocence you appeared to be in which made you happy and I enjoyed your innocent pleasures and conversation, feeling you the nearest and dearest ties left me on this earth, for whom I have devoted my youth and the strength of my days, for which I desire no greater joy than to hear of your walking in the truth. Oh, my dear Philip, I need not to point out the evils thee ought to refrain from or the good thee should attend to, believing that thou art well acquainted with that light which will and does make manifest and that thou knowest to choose the good and to refuse the evil. May it be thy happy experience in every time of trial, and they may be many in your large City where temptations abound, but ever remember there is a strong tower, a rock of defense, where unto thou mayest always flee unto and find refuge.

As happiness is our aim, and I can give my experience that I never found any in doing wrong but on the contrary, remorse and distress, untill I believed the wrong was forgiven, and I think it much easier to

to keep a watchful care over ourselves to cease to do evil, to learn to do well, seek peace and pursue it and peace will be a rich reward. There is no enjoyment in this mundane sphere without it. I have often reflected on the great importance of young men first setting out in life. Their character about forming, the care that is needful for them to take least it should be sullied by any misconduct. The eyes of the world is more on such often than after the character is established. May I fondly hope that my sons will dignify the name of Hopkins. I think they have it in their power and do not neglect it. Should it be reversed I shall be greatly disappointed. It is getting dark and I am called to supper. Must bid thee very affectionately farewell. Write by Mintie. I remain as ever

thy attached Mother

Hannah Hopkins

May 2 1826

Dear Brother

5th mo 8th 1826

having an opportunity and
and a little leisure a great deal of respect and a little business have seated myself to endeavor to in some measure to convince them first I congratulate the with the recption of thy 3^d Daughter and the recovery of thy amiable wife hoping she may be a fruitful vine and thy children as olive plants about thy table I may experimentally say it is a great blessing to have comfort in children altho it may be through the medium of much anxiety and care our dear Mother has recovered her usual health tho not quite so well this morning the remaining part of the family all well ll... the low price offered for tobacco induces Joseph to keep his ^{hoping} for a better market will trouble thee to send by Cousin Gerard 50 Dollars please to let him

There is money enclosed that he may not forward it to me by an unsafe hand we are after anxious to hear from you I wish thee would write often I shall expect ~~you~~ a long letter by Cousin G. I have heard nothing from the wedding company since our return Dear John how does he fore and Samuel has he made any purchase of land yet I feel very anxious for the welfare of our inestimable Brothers children who at no period of their lives needed a father's council more than it appeared to me they now do the stability of their very excellent Brother and a few years more experience I hope will make them useful men please to give my love to our afflicted Brother Thomas and his family and let me know what account Elbridge gives of the Elms of you from him will close with much love to sister Theysel and family thy attached Sister Hannah Hopkins

5th. 8. 1826
Hannah Hopkins

Joseph Janney^{sr}

of
G Hopkins

Alexandria

5th mo. 8th 1826

Dear Brother

Having an opportunity and a little liesure, a great deal of respect and a little business, have seated myself to endeavor in some measure to evince them. First I congratulate thee with the reception of thy 3d daughter and the recovry of thy amiable wife, hoping she may be a fruitful vine and thy children as olive plants about thy table. I may experimentally say it is a great blessing to have comfort in children although it may be through the medium of much anxiety and care. Our dear Mother has recovered her usual health tho not quite so well this morning. The remaining part of the family all well. The low price offered for tobacco induces Joseph to keep his, hoping for a better market. Will trouble thee to send by Cousin Gerard 50 dollars please to let him there is money enclosed that he may not forward it to me by an unsafe hand. We are often anxious to hear from you. I wish thee would write often. I shall expect a long letter by Cousin G H. Have heard nothing from the wedding company since our return. Dear John, how does he fare and samuel, has he made any purchase of land yet? I feel very anxious for the welfare of our inestimable Brothers children who at no period of their lives needed a father's council more than it appeared to me they now do. The stability of their veryexcellent Brother and a few years more experience I hope will make them useful men. Please to give my love to our afflicted Brother Thomas and his family and let me know what account Eldridge gives of the Elino s on from him. Will close with much love to Sister, thysel and family, thy attached Sister

Hannah Hopkins

Hopkins 74

5th mo. 8th 1826

Dear Brother [Joseph Janney]

Having an opportunity and a little liesure, a great deal of respect and a little business, have seated myself to endeavor in some measure to evince them. First I congratulate thee with the reception of thy 3d daughter and the recovry of thy amiable wife, hoping she may be a fruitful vine and thy children as olive plants about thy table. I may experimentally say it is a great blessing to have comfort in children although it may be through the medium of much anxiety and care. Our dear Mother has recovered her usual health tho not quite so well this morning. The remaining part of the family all well. The low price offered for tobacco induces Joseph to keep his, hoping for a better market. Will trouble thee to send by Cousin Gerard 50 dollars please to let him there is money enclosed that he may not forward it to me by an unsafe hand. We are often anxious to hear from you. I wish thee would write often. I shall expect a long letter by Cousin G H. Have heard nothing from the wedding company since our return. Dear John, how does he fare and samuel, has he made any purchase of land yet? I feel very anxious for the welfare of our inestimable Brothers children who at no period of their lives needed a father's council more than it appeared to me they now do. The stability of their very excellent Brother and a few years more experience I hope will make them useful men. Please to give my love to our afflicted Brother Thomas and his family and let me know what account Eldridge gives of the Elino s on from him. Will close with much love to Sister, thysel and family, thy attached Sister

Hannah Hopkins

Original in safe

Dear Brother

5th mo 8th 1826

having an opportunity and
and a little leisure a great deal of respect and
a little business have seated myself to
endeavor to in some measure to convince them first I congratulate the with the reception of thy 3^d Daughter and the recovery
of thy amiable wife hoping she may be a fruitful vine and thy children as did plants about thy table I may experimen-
tally say it is a great blessing to have
comfort in children altho it may be through the medium of much anxiety and care
our dear Mother has recovered her usual
health tho not quite so well this morning the remaining part of the family all well... the low price offered for tobacco
induces Joseph to keep his ^{hoping} for a better market will trouble thee to send by Cass in Gerard 50 dollars please to let her original in safe

There is money enclosed that he may not forward it to me by an unsafe man are often anxious to hear from you I wish thee would write often I shall expect a long letter by mail. I have heard nothing from the wedding company since our return Dear John how does he fare and Samuel has he made any purchase of land?
I feel very anxious for the welfare of
our inestimable Brother's children who at no period of their lives needed a council more than it appeared to me they now do the stability of their minds Brother and a few years more experience I hope will make them useful men. ple
to give my love to our afflicted Brother
Thomas and his family and let me know what account Concord gives of the business of will close with much love to Sister
thy attached Sister Hannah Hopkins

57no. 8, 1826

Harvard Hopkins

Joseph Jannet

of Alexandria
G. Hopkins

Dear Philip

being alone this afternoon and my mind turning toward thee as it has often been since I last saw thee with earnest desires for thy welfare and preservation. Dear Philip I often view thee as a tender plant even of the fathers right hand planting. may thou be willing to come under his forming hand and to turn a deaf ear to all the false tho' flattering follies and vanities of this delusive world. often indeed I per-vently desire the father of mercies that he would be pleased to be with thee to guard thy tender years from lying vanities. let not sinners entice thee, but keep on the watch tower, shun every appearance of evil I have often to turn over the leaves of my life and to examine myself with respect to my conduct toward you. and altho I may have fallen short in my religious care ~~toward you~~ in many respects while you were under my roof which period I often revere to happy days. yet I am thankful in remembering the state of innocence you appeared to be in which made you happy. and I enjoyed your innocent and ^{pleasures} conversation feeling you the nearest and dearest ties left me on this earth for whom I have devoted my youth and the strength of my days for which I desire no greater joy ~~than~~ than to hear of your walking in the truth - oh my phelix I need not to point out the evil she ought to refrain from or the good she should attend to. believing that

thou art well acquainted with that light which will and does make manifest. and that thou knowest best to choose the good and refuse the evil, may it be thy happy experience in every time of trial and they
may be many in your large City where tempta-
tions abound - but ever remember there is a strong
tower a rock of defense whereunto thou mayest
always flee unto and find refuge -

as happiness is our aim. - and I can give my experience - that I never found any in doing wrong -
but on the contrary remorse and distress until I
believed the wrong was forgiven. - and I think it
much easier to keep a watchful care over ourselves
to cease to do evil to learn to do well seek peace
and pursue it and peace will be a rich reward
there is no enjoyment in this mundane sphere -
without it I have often reflected on the great
importance of young men first setting out in life then character about forming the care that is needful for them to take least it should be sullied by
any misconduct the eyes of the world is more on such a step than after the character is established may I fondly hope that my sons will deem

by the name of Hopkins I think they have it
in their power and do not neglect it should
it be reversed I shall be greatly disappointed

it is getting dark and I am called to sup-
per must bid thee very affectionally fare
well write by minutes

I remain as ever
thy attached Mother

Hannah Hopkins

Philip Hopkins

Baltimore

by Mente

[Faint, illegible handwritten text, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side of the page]

Dear Philip

Being alone this afternoon and my mind turning toward thee as it has often been since I last saw thee with earnest desires for thy welfare and preservation. Dear Philip, I often view thee as a tender plant even of the Father's right hand planting. May thee be willing to come under his forming hand and to turn a deaf ear to all the false tho flattering follies and vanities of this delusive world. Often indeed I fervently desire the Father of Mercies that he would be pleased to be with thee to guard thy tender years from lying vanities. Let not sinners entice thee, but keep on the watch tower, shun every appearance of evil. I have often to turn over the leaves of my life and to examine myself with respect to my conduct toward you and altho I may have fallen short in my religious care in many respects while you were under my roof, which period I often recur to as happy days, yet I am thankful in remembering the state of innocence you appeared to be in which made you happy and I enjoyed your innocent pleasures and conversation, feeling you the nearest and dearest ties left me on this earth, for whom I have devoted my youth and the strength of my days, for which I desire no greater joy than to hear of your walking in the truth. Oh, my dear Philip, I need not to point out the evils thee ought to refrain from or the good thee should attend to, believing that thou art well acquainted with that light which will and does make manifest and that thou knowest to choose the good and to refuse the evil. May it be thy happy experience in every time of trial, and they may be many in your large City where temptations abound, but ever remember there is a strong tower, a rock of defense, where unto thou mayest always flee unto and find refuge.

As happiness is our aim, and I can give my experience that I never found any in doing wrong but on the contrary, remorse and distress, untill I believed the wrong was forgiven, and I think it much easier to

over.....

original in safe

Aug 29 1832

8th mo. 29th 1832

150

Dear Philip

7
since hearing of thy late indisposition it has often occur'd to me to write to thee, but have reason'd it away, until a late friend of the present opportunity when it has return'd with force, evidencing a deep interest in thy present and everlasting welfare Dear Philip, thee has been several ^{times} warn'd, and closely tried with sickness which had the appearance of causing thy final separation from all terrestrial things, but he who is ~~very~~ merciful hath been pleas'd to view thee again and again with an eye of compassion and tender-love not only ⁱⁿ thus healing thy dreadful maladies, and sparing thy precious life, but also in striving with thee in the hour of temptation when the enemy of mans happiness has thrown discou-ragements in thy way, and may even ^{have} propos'd skeptical views which of all others beware as they will lead to deistical, and finally destroy the christian's hope; may that arm of divine love preserve thee and draw thee more to himself showing ^{the} the necessity there is in living more

Devoted to the precious cause of truth and righteousness, ^{thereby} evincing thy gratitude to the author of all good for his sure mercies unto thee in thus continuing thy life and breath and being while thousands of thy fellow beings are quickly launched into the great abyss of Eternity, a place of final fixeness - whether among the blest there to enjoy without alloy that fruition of glory prepared and designed for the faithful in all ages of the world ~~not~~ be placed with those on the left hand to whom the saviour of the world ~~declared~~ the awful sentence would be pronounced. Depart ye cursed I know you not, ah my dear how awful - may we live so that we need not fear this will be our deplorable condition - for well may it be queried: "who can dwell with everlasting burning?" The friends are about to leave us must conclude and bid thee affectionately farewell my love to thy Brothers from thy anxious Mother H. Hopkins

Gerard has suffered much with pain in his ears they ^{are} now measurably relieved and he just begins to enjoy himself the remaining part of the family are well

8th mo. 29th 1832

Dear Philip

Since hearing of thy late indisposition it has often occurred to me to write to thee, but have reasoned it away, until a late period of the present opportunity when it has returned with force, evidencing a deep interest in thy present and everlasting welfare. Dear Philip, thee has been several times warned and closely tried with sickness which had the appearance of causing thy final dissolution from all terrestrial things but He who is very merciful hath been pleased to view thee again and again with an eye of compassion and tender love not only in thus healing thy dreadful maladies and sparing thy precious life, but also in striving with thee in the hour of temptation when the enemy of man's happiness has thrown discouragements in thy way and may even have proposed skeptical views, which of all others beware as they will lead to deistical, and finally destroy the Christian's hope; may that arm of divine love preserve thee and draw thee more to himself shewing thee the necessity there is in living more devoted to the precious cause of truth and righteousness thereby evincing thy gratitude to the author of all good for his sure mercies unto thee in thus continuing thy life and breath and being, while thousands of thy fellow beings are quickly launched into the great abyss of Eternity, a place of final fixedness - whether among the blessed there to enjoy without alloy that fruition of glory prepared and designed for the faithful in all ages of the world or to be placed with those on the left hand to whom the Saviour of the world the awful sentence would be pronounced, Depart, ye cursed, I know ye not. Oh, my dear P, how awful. May we live so that we need not fear this will be our deplorable condition- for well may it be queried: "Who can dwell with everlasting burning?"

The friends are about to leave us. Must conclude and bid thee affectionately farewell. My love to thy Brothers.

From thy anxious Mother H. Hopkins

Gerard has suffered much with pain in his ears. They are measurably relieved and he just begins to enjoy himself. The remaining part of the family are well.

Hopkins H.
8th mo. 29th 1832

Dear Philip [Hopkins].

Since hearing of thy late indisposition it has often occurred to me to write to thee, but have reasoned it away, until a late period of the present opportunity when it has returned with force, evidencing a deep interest in thy present and everlasting welfare. Dear Philip, thee has been several times warned and closely tried with sickness which had the appearance of causing thy final dissolution from all terrestrial things but He who is very merciful hath been pleased to view thee again and again with an eye of compassion and tender love not only in thus healing thy dreadful maladies and sparing thy precious life, but also in striving with thee in the hour of temptation when the enemy of man's happiness has thrown discouragements in thy way and may even have proposed skeptical views which of all others beware as they will lead to deistical, and finally destroy the Christian's hope; may that arm of divine love preserve thee and draw thee more to himself shewing thee the necessity there is in living more devoted to the precious cause of truth and righteousness thereby evincing thy gratitude to the author of all good for his sure mercies unto thee in thus continuing thy life and breath and being, while thousands of thy fellow beings are quickly launched into the great abyss of Eternity, a place of final fixedness - whether among the blessed there to enjoy without alloy that fruition of glory prepared and designed for the faithful in all ages of the world or to be placed with those on the left hand to whom the Saviour of the world the awful sentence would be pronounced, Depart, ye cursed, I know ye not. Oh, my dear P, how awful. May we live so that we need not fear this will be our deplorable condition- for well may it be queried: "Who can dwell with everlasting burning?"

The friends are about to leave us. Must conclude and bid thee

Original in safe

to keep a watchful care over ourselves to cease to do evil, to learn to do well, seek peace and pursue it and peace will be a rich reward. There is no enjoyment in this mundane sphere without it. I have often reflected on the great importance of young men first setting out in life. Their character about forming, the care that is needful for them to take least it should be sullied by any misconduct. The eyes of the world is more on such often than after the character is established. May I fondly hope that my sons will dignify the name of Hopkins. I think they have it in their power and do not neglect it. Should it be reversed I shall be greatly disappointed. It is getting dark and I am called to supper. Must bid thee very affectionately farewell. Write by Mintie. I remain as ever

thy attached Mother

Hannah Hopkins

8th mo. 29th 1832

150

Dear Philip

since hearing of thy late in-
disposition it has often occur'd to me to write
to thee, but have reason'd it away, until a late period of the present opportunity when it has return'd with force, evidencing a deep
interest in thy present and everlasting welfare Dear Philip, thou has been several ^{times} warn'd, and closely tried with sickness which had the appearance of causing thy final dissolution from all terrestrial things, but he who is ~~very~~ cereifal hath been pleas'd to view thee again and again with an eye of compassion and tender love not only ⁱⁿ thus healing thy dreadful malice, and sparing thy precious life, but also in stricing with thee in the hour of temptation when
the enemy of mans happiness has thrown discou-ragements in thy way - and may even ^{have} propo-
s'd skeptical views which of all others beware
as they will lead to deistical, and finally destroy the christian hope; may that arm of divine love preserve thee and draw thee more to himself shewing ^{the} necessity there is in living more

original in
safe

Devoted to the precious cause of truth and righteousness ^{trusting} evincing thy gratitude to the author of all good for his pure mercies unto thee in thus continuing thy life and breath and being
while thousands of thy fellow beings are quickly
launched into the great abyss of Eternity, a place of final fixings - whether among the blessed there to enjoy without alloy that fruition of glory prepared and designed for the faithful in all ages of the world or to be placed with those on the left hand to whom the saviour of the world ~~revels~~ the awful sentence would be pronounced. Depart ye cursed I know you not, ah my dear
how awful - may we live so that we need
not fear this will be our deplorable condition -
for well may it be queried "who can dwell with everlasting burning?"

The friends are about to leave us must conclude and bid thee affectionately farewell my love to thy Brother from thy anxious Mother H. Hopkins

Gerard has suffered much with pain in his ears
they are now measurably relieved and he just
begins to enjoy himself the remaining part of the family are well.