ALPES MARITIMES.

April 9. 1903.

Dear President,

Altho' a stranger you may have heard of me as President of the British & Foreign Bible Society in the Old Country. I have just seen in your Bible Society Record that you have been chosen President and I felt that I must send a line of friendly congratulation and ^{most} ~~very~~ ^{warmly} good wishes.
There is nothing that ^{unites} ~~unites~~ us all together than the Book of Books & the knowledge that lovers of God's Word are working wholeheartedly in the same direction and praying for God's work to be blessed in all lands.

May I offer you the handshakes of Christian fellowship across the sea?

We have both great responsibilities before us & when you have a ripe scholarship to bring before us, I have only an earnest desire to do my duty.
We have both equally, however, a number of devoted men & women to help us & the prayers of all Christians -

May your Society & its President be increasingly blessed in its work in the prayer of

Yours very sincerely
Northampton
